

VanZyverden's HOSTA GUACAMOLE

Hostas are grown for their foliage and not their flowers. They come in a spectrum of blues, golds, greens, yellows and whites as well as variegated, some speckled and others striped. They thrive in the shade even though they can withstand some sun. Long-lived and low-maintenance. Many hosta varieties have seasonal color or can change color depending on growing conditions. While there are over 3,000 cultivars to choose from, we offer some of the more extraordinary. Each is unique in color, texture and form.

Highly fragrant

Low maintenance and shade loving

About This Variety: Hosta Guacamole is a medium sized plant with leaves the color of guacamole. Its leaves are wide, oval, funnel shaped, chartreuse-gold in color with irregular glossy darker bluish-green margins. They are highly fragrant with white flowers in summer.

Growing Instructions: While drought tolerant, they do not like being kept dry for long. They prefer rich, well-drained soil with a consistent supply of moisture.

Care Tip: Virtually maintenance free. Clip out dead flower stalks after flowering.

Exposure: Partial Shade to Full Shade

Height: Grows 12-18" tall

Spacing: Plant 3-4' apart, 1.5-2" deep
