RE: California Proposition 65 Compliance

Date: December 7, 2023

This correspondence concerns Sauder Woodworking Company's ongoing compliance with California's Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act, commonly known as "Proposition 65". As explained below, due to ongoing testing and verification, all of Sauder Woodworking's products fall within the "safe harbor" that do not require special labeling.

Proposition 65, as it has developed, lists a significant number of chemicals and ingredients that California has determined may be carcinogenic or reproductive toxins. If one or more of those substances is present in a product in excess of the minimum prescribed level for that substance, then Proposition 65 requires that either the product be labeled accordingly, or appropriate signage be posted at point of sale using mandated California-specific warnings.

In response to the Proposition 65 requirements, Sauder Woodworking tests its products to ensure compliance. Testing has verified that all of Sauder Woodworking's products do not exceed any triggering threshold for any of the listed Proposition 65 constituents. Accordingly, due to the testing of its products and the resulting verification of compliance, Sauder Woodworking does not label those products that are in compliance with the Proposition 65 safe harbor.

If any product, for any reason, becomes one that requires labeling under Proposition 65, then Sauder Woodworking will label such product(s) in full compliance with the requirements of Proposition 65 and any applicable law.

Should you have any questions concerning the above, please do not hesitate to contact me.
Thank you!
