

Van Zyperden's
HOSTA BIG DADDY

Hosta's are not grown for their flowers but for their foliage, which are prettier than the flowers, and which come in a spectrum of blues, golds, greens, yellows and whites as well as variegated, some speckled and others striped. They thrive in the shade, even though they can with stand some sun, are long-lived and low-maintenance. Many Hosta varieties have seasonal color or can change color depending on growing conditions. While there are well over 3,000 cultivars to choose from we offer a range of foliage shapes, colors and sizes. They can take years to fully mature, each year exhibiting a change in color, texture and form.

America's favorite shade perennial

Grown for their lush foliage

Very long lived perennial, which grows bigger and more impressive with each season

About This Variety: With Hostas size matters. Big Daddy is known for its large leaves, which are round, thick, cupped and rich-blue in color. If grown in shady conditions, with little or just morning sun, it will retain its best blue color although it will become more green as the summer progresses changing it's hue over time.

Growing Instructions: While drought tolerant, they do not like being kept dry for long, and prefer rich, well-drained soil with a consistent supply of moisture.

Care Tip: Virtually maintenance free, clip out dead flower stalks after flowering.

Exposure: Partial shade to full shade

Height: Grows 12-24" tall

Spacing: Plant 24-36" apart, 1.5-2" deep

Hardy in: USDA zones 3-8

Guaranteed to grow 1 year from purchase if directions are followed. Any concerns related to quality and/or counts feel free to contact us.
